Cannae: The Experience of Battle in the Second Punic War ...

The Battle of Cannae was a key engagement of the Second Punic War between the Roman Republic and Carthage, fought on 2 August 216 BC near the ancient village of Cannae in Apulia, southeast Italy. The Carthaginians and their allies, led by Hannibal, surrounded and practically annihilated a larger Roman and Italian army under the consuls Lucius Aemilius Paullus and Gaius Terentius Varro. It is regarded as one of the greatest tactical feats in military history and one of the worst defeats in Roman Amazon.com: Customer reviews: Cannae: The Experience of ...

The Roman army at Cannae wouldn't have nearly as much level of tactical independence and experience. The legion couldn't just be broken up willy nilly, not at this stage anyway. Don't care about infantry beating cavalry, what I do care about is examples of infantry supporting cavalry on the flank in the manner you're suggesting the Romans should have (but were unable) to do.
