The first American party system had its origins in the period following the Revolutionary War. Despite Madison's warning in Federalist No. 10, the first parties began as political factions. Upon taking office in 1789, President George Washington sought to create an "enlightened administration" devoid of political parties (White & Shea, 2000).

The English, however, were incapable of conceptualizing a relationship of reciprocity with America's indigenous population, leading eventually to war and acts of genocide. This history, duly recorded from the settler-colonial perspective, has a parallel history that was recorded through the medium of wampum and survives through oral tradition.
