to be a definitive yes. After all, the Japanese giant is one of the founding fathers of the original Blu-ray format and still offers a range of 4K Blu-ray players in its current AV line-up, including its latest deck, the UBP-X800M2.

£699 in the UK. For £29 more, you could get an iPhone 11, £30 less will get you a Galaxy S10e, or for exactly the same cash its main rival is the OnePlus 7 Pro.. With that kind of competition, the latest Xperia is going to need more than its sensational colour options to make it pop (even if we only got the black one).
